

Amusements

POLIS

Eight big features, comprising the cream of vaudeville and photoplay offerings, are presented in the program which is attracting big audiences to Poli's at every performance. The vaudeville program, to be seen for the last time this evening, includes:

"The Lawn Party" a clever juvenile musical comedy, introducing ten entertaining boys and girls in a bright and breezy skit; John Neff, the local boy, assisted by Lillian Dallis, in his unique comedy offering; Camille Personne & Co., in a dainty tabloid comic opera; Quigley & Fitzgerald, in their up-to-date musical variety non-sense; and Lockhart Bros., eccentric acrobatic comedians.

There are three attractive features in the photoplay bill, including Beatrice Fairfax, "the big sister of all true lovers," assisted by Harry Fox and Grace Darling in the two reel episode "The Missing Watchman." This is the first installment, complete in itself, of the great Beatrice Fairfax serial. The five part film drama, "The Prima Donna's Husband," a gripping story of heart interest; and the Pathe pictorial news, presenting news and views of the world, are also shown.

PLAZA

Today is the last day local fans will have to see the noted character actor, Frank Keenan, in his most recent and easily his greatest achievement, "The Thoroughbred," at the Plaza theatre. "The Thoroughbred" is a story of the race track and in it Mr. Keenan portrays the role of Major Almese, a Southern gentleman whose hobby, as well as livelihood, are fast horses. "The story is developed in five acts and is thrilling in the extreme."

"Never Again," William Collier, Keystone comedy in two chapters, is the funniest produced by the comedy in months.

Adelaide Herrmann, widow of Herrmann the Great, is mystifying the throngs at every performance as "Cagliostro," the mistress of mystery. Madame Herrmann has successfully mastered many of her late husband's most startling illusions as well as many of her own invention and her work is creating much favorable comment in local theatrical circles.

Fagg and White have a nifty little offering composed of song, dance and comedy chatter that goes over big at every performance. Hyland and Dale, a clever pair of girls in songs and mirth, with Paul Petching and Company in his beautiful musical novelty entitled "The Musical Flower Garden," complete the vaudeville.

William Collier is starred in the latest Keystone comedy, "Never Again."

Tomorrow, will bring Bobby Barron and Mae Marsh in "The Little Liar" as the main fringe attraction.

LYRIC

From a managerial point of view, as well as public, the newly established system at the Lyric, is an assured success, as evidenced by the greatly enlarged attendance at the Lyric, at every performance, during the past two weeks, since the advent of the International circuit of bookings, and which will continue throughout the entire season, with a succession of very popular attractions, such as this week, where Joe Welch, that finished character comedy star, is now presenting his very interesting, and at times, intense human drama, "The Peddler."

Plays and production of this calibre cannot fail to command the attention of the theatre going public, and such is the brand which will follow throughout the season with a weekly change of reputable traveling organizations, each of which will carry one or two car loads of scenery and equipment. Mr. Welch's characterization of "Abraham Jacobson," is a work of genuine dramatic art, in fact, a splendid relief from the time time performers of the theatre goer witnesses from the average Hebrew comedian. Mr. Welch's work in "The Peddler" is so sincere, quiet, and at all moments strictly human, as to make it a character of deep interest to everybody. Mr. Welch has been termed "King of his law," and in his performance, he shows magnetism, a point which very few stage artists of the present day possess.

The sale of seats for "The Peddler" for the balance of the week, plainly indicates that production of this brand will draw strongly at the Lyric, as stated numerous times, by different writers, Joe Welch has "a way with him" that one cannot resist, for he is an actor, pure and simple, and "to the manor born."

STRIKING PAINTERS IN DERBY EXPECT TO HAVE DEMAND GRANTED

Derby, Sept. 13.—The strike of the journeymen painters and paper hangers which was declared Monday in all of the associated towns, is likely to be brought to a settlement before the week is over. This announcement was made by some of the painters yesterday, following a meeting that was held at Labor hall.

According to the painters a committee of their number has already signed an agreement which provides the $4 a day rate, and such progress was made yesterday that the committee believes that before the week is out all of the boss painters will have signed. Seven of the contracting painters have agreed, according to the committee, to sign the new rate, the signers representing those who employ the largest number of workmen.

APPROVES CROSSOVERS

After public hearings yesterday at Hartford the public utilities commission decided to approve the petitions of the Connecticut Co. for the construction of crossovers here in North avenue near Whitney avenue; East Main street near Stillman street; Congress street at Lyon terrace; Congress street at William street; Park avenue near Laurel avenue; Boston avenue below Central avenue; and Noble avenue above Barnum avenue.

CRIMEAN WAR VETERAN VISITS NEWTOWN HOME

Native of Wales, He Spent Many Years in Service of Great Britain.

Newtown, Sept. 13.—Thos. Kinsey, one of the eight surviving veterans of the Crimean war, now residing in Passaic, New Jersey, spent the past week enjoying the hospitality of old friends in Newtown. He is a native of Wales and belonged to an infantry regiment recruited in Lancashire, England, which saw service at both Inkerman and Balaklava in the Crimea peninsula. On his return from this war his regiment also saw service in India, China and Abyssinia.

In 1888 he was with the British soldiers sent to quell the Fenian uprising in Ireland, and his company did coast guard duty for some time after. Here Private Kinsey met his fate in the blue eyes of an Irish maid, whom he later married. They came to this country, and after spending several years in Pennsylvania as a miner, he removed to Newtown where many relatives of his wife lived.

Here he was an employee of the Rubber company until the withdrawal of the enterprise from Sandy Hook when he retired to his farm in New Jersey, occupying this until his advancing years compelled him to seek rest with his son, David Kinsey, of Passaic, New Jersey, about three years ago. His wife died about a year ago.

The veteran expects to cross the Atlantic next year, and meet the few surviving comrades of the battles of more than a half century ago. The old hero is 81 years of age but looks little past fifty. He started today for his home, but will visit a daughter in Bridgeport for a day or two in route.

Mrs. James F. Brennan and son, James of New Haven returned to their city home, today, to be ready for the opening of school there next week.

Miss Coffey of Naugatuck is visiting her sister at Miss Mary Harrigan's home, Sandy Hook.

Herman D. Oppel will take a special course in theoretical and applied chemistry in the Massachusetts Agricultural school attached to Amherst college next year. He will enter Sept. 18.

The Misses May and Helen Kilbride of the Glen who taught in the Suffield schools last year, have accepted positions in the Center school, New Milford, for the coming year. They will do fifth and sixth grade work.

Miss Helen Keane will teach in a graded school at New Britain next year.

Prof. and Mrs. Leo Hickson have arrived in town. Professor Hickson is the choice of the High school committee for principal.

Miss Anna M. Corbett, N. H. S., 1915, has entered the state normal school at Danbury for the teachers' course.

Miss Mary Keane, N. H. S., 1916, will take a post graduate course the coming year at her alma mater.

Albert Trimmer of Berkshire was taken to the Danbury hospital, yesterday by Selectman Curtis, suffering from hemorrhage of the lungs.

Rev. George T. Sinnott, rector of St. Rose's is engaged this week in the annual parish visitation and making the census of the parish.

Fred Harris is spending his vacation with friends in Utica, New York.

C. W. Canfield of Boxford spent Monday in Bridgeport, making the trip in his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadwell of Bridgeport are guests of Mrs. C. M. Smith, Sandy Hook.

Miss Anna Martin returned to New York, Sunday night, to report for duty in the New York schools this week.

The Shamrocks of Bridgeport were greatly outclassed by the local baseball team, Sunday at the Knoll field, being defeated by the score of 16 to 5.

Although one sided, some clever fielding was done by the visitors, but their batting was weak. The manager promises another game next week when their full team will be present.

William Burns of New Jersey is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Owen Burns.

E. J. Thrall has added a new department to his store, the fresh fish and oyster business.

W. W. Latham has moved into the John Roche cottage near the station, and has hired the Bassett stables for his teams.

John Aborio, the contractor on the Sandy Hook bridge gives the date of opening as Sept. 17.

Richard Brophy has put in a wood working plant at the garage of Howard Bassett, Sandy Hook.

Miss Kathryn McNamara will enter the Passaic General hospital, Sept. 15, in training for nurse. Miss Loretta Yawman of Walnut Tree Hill has already entered the same institution.

The registrars of voters give notice that they will be in session Sept. 14.

Selectman Newtown Curtis took Edward Booth, an aged resident of Sandy Hook to the Danbury hospital Saturday. He is suffering from ossification of the cartilages, and is helpless.

YACHT CLUB MEETS.

The Pequonnock Yacht club met last evening and instructed the entertainment committee to make arrangements for an entertainment to be held the latter part of this month. The committee that had charge of the recent salt air carnival reported it a financial success.

FIND RING OWNED BY WM. F. MCCULLOUGH

The mystery of the disappearance of a ring owned by William F. McCullough, of 814 William street, who died at the New Haven hospital, Aug. 31, of injuries he suffered in an automobile accident, has been cleared. The ring was found in the possession of the young woman, who said Mr. McCullough had placed the ring in her possession for safe keeping.

According to the girl's story, the ring had been left with her by McCullough shortly before he left on the fatal automobile trip. It is worth $300.

An investigation is still being made. It was thought the ring had been stolen after the accident. The police of New Haven are puzzled to know why the young woman didn't make known before the fact that she had the ring.

McCullough is a brother of Policeman Robert McCullough. A car he was driving struck a trolley car after he had turned out to avoid another automobile.

Efficiency and Economy
An economy and efficiency committee of five members were appointed at a special town meeting held in Westport, Thursday evening, and their duties will be to devise means for controlling the town expenditures.

Three Confess Burglary
Oscar Williams, 19; Clarence Heady, 23, and W. G. Shields, 21, have confessed to planning and taking part in the burglary of the home of Joel Merchant, a retired farmer of Danbury. Of $284 in gold and bills taken the police have recovered all but $50, the burglars having hidden the loot near their homes. Shields is chauffeur for Merchant and the other men live in the vicinity.

Motorcycle Accident
W. P. Bailey, aged 35 years, of Stamford, is dead and Mrs. E. Gertrude Ireland of Norwalk is in the Stamford hospital with a fractured skull and small hopes are held out for her recovery, as the result of a motorcycle accident in Stamford Saturday night. The accident happened when the motorcycle, on which were Bailey and Mrs. Ireland, skidded into the Crystal avenue bridge in Stamford Saturday night. Bailey was almost instantly killed, his head crashing into the stone abutment.

Hit By Auto
Peter Hornig, of Ridgefield, was struck by an automobile owned by George L. Wilson, of New York city, a short distance from his home, Sunday evening and died within a few minutes from injuries received. A neck was broken. The chauffeur of the automobile, George Brown, in the employ of Mr. Wilson was not held. Mr. Hornig was in the florist business and his hot houses were on the Danbury road. He had just left his home and was walking on the left side of the road, it is reported, when a large touring car turned into the left and traveling at a rate of speed which is said to have been too fast. Hardly had the machine turned the corner than it struck Mr. Hornig. The people in the car said later that it appeared to them as though the man walked in front of the machine. Other people claimed that the man was well to the left of the road.
